That Winter Pamela Gillilan 1986 Pamela Gillilan was born in London in 1918, married in 1948 and moved to Cornwall in 1951. When she sat down to write her poem Come Away after the death of her husband David, she had written no poems for a quarter of a century. Then came a sequence of incredibly moving elegies. Other poems followed, and two years after starting to write again, she won the Cheltenham Festival poetry competition. Her first collection That Winter (Bloodaxe, 1986) was shortlisted for the Commonwealth Poetry Prize.

The Social History of the American Family Marilyn J. Coleman 2014-09-02 The American family has come a long way from the days of the idealized family portrayed in iconic television shows of the 1950s and 1960s. The four volumes of The Social History of the American Family explore the vital role of the family as the fundamental social unit across the span of American history. Experiences of family life shape so much of an individual's development and identity, yet the patterns of family structure, family life, and family transition vary across time, space, and socioeconomic contexts. Both the definition of who or what counts as family and representations of the "ideal" family have changed over time to reflect changing mores, changing living standards and lifestyles, and increased levels of social heterogeneity. Available in both digital and print formats, this carefully balanced academic work chronicles the social, cultural, economic, and political aspects of American families from the colonial period to the present. Key themes include families and culture (including mass media), families and religion, families and the economy, families and social issues, families and social stratification and conflict, family structures (including marriage and divorce, gender roles, parenting and children, and mixed and non-modal family forms), and family law and policy. Features: Approximately 600 articles, richly illustrated with historical photographs and color photos in the digital edition, provide historical context for students. A collection of primary source documents demonstrate themes across time. The signed articles, with cross references and Further Readings, are accompanied by a Reader's Guide, Chronology of American Families, Resource Guide, Glossary, and thorough index. The Social History of the American Family is an ideal reference for students and researchers who want to explore political and social debates about the importance of the family and its evolving constructions.

Project Based Teaching Suzie Boss 2018-09-20 It's no secret that in today's complex world, students face unparalleled demands as they prepare for college, careers, and active citizenship. However, those demands won't be met without a fundamental shift from traditional, teacher-centered instruction toward innovative, student-centered teaching and learning. For schools ready to make such a shift, project-based learning (PBL) offers a proven framework to help students be better equipped to tackle future challenges. Project Based Teachers encourage active questioning, curiosity, and peer learning; create learning environments in which every student has a voice; and have a mastery of content but are also comfortable responding to students' questions by saying, "I don't know. Let's find out together." In this book, Suzie Boss and John Larmer build on the framework for Gold Standard PBL originally presented in Setting the Standard for Project Based Learning and explore the seven practices integral to Project Based Teaching: Build the Culture Design and Plan Align to Standards Manage Activities Assess Student Learning Scaffold Student Learning Engage and Coach For each practice, the authors present a wide range of practical strategies and include teachers' reflections about and suggestions from their classroom experiences. This book and a related series of free videos provide a detailed look at what's happening in PBL classrooms from the perspective of the Project Based Teacher. Let's find out together. Southern Edwardseans Obbie Tyler Todd 2022-01-17 The founders and forerunners of the Southern Baptist Convention were fundamentally shaped by the thought of Puritan theologian Jonathan Edwards and his theological successors. While Baptists in the antebellum South boasted a different theological pedigree than Presbyterians or Congregationalists, and while they inhabited a Southern landscape unfamiliar to the bustling cities and tall forests of New England, they believed their similarities with Edwards far outweighed their differences. Like Edwards, these Baptists were revivalistic, Calvinistic, loosely confessional, and committed to practical divinity. In these four things, Southern Edwardseanism lived, moved, and had its being. In the nineteenth-century, when so many Presbyterians scoffed at Edwards's "innovation" and Methodists scorned his Calvinism, Baptists found in Edwards a man after their own heart. By 1845, at the first Southern Baptist Convention, Southern Edwardseans had laid the groundwork for a convention marked by the theology of Jonathan Edwards.

Thankfully in Love Anna J. Stewart 2020-10-27 Four USA Today bestselling romance authors come together for Thanksgiving, telling the stories of four women who have not had the best experiences with the men they have dated in their pasts. With the help of family and loved ones this holiday season, can they learn to open their hearts one more time? If they can dare to make the leap, they could find themselves finally, thankfully in love... There's no place like home, especially during Thanksgiving. After spending ten years as an officer and analyst with a special division in a federal cyber-investigation, Tripp Atsilla is on the brink of burnout. Then he meets Parker Rutledge. Two years ago she changed her name and moved to a small town, hoping to leave the damage her ex-husband caused behind. Someone's found her; someone who wants to make her pay for her ex-husband's crimes. But can she trust Tripp? Can she trust anyone? ... Miranda Cox isn't looking forward to heading home for Thanksgiving. She'd raved to everyone that Matthew was the one; now she has yet another failed relationship under her belt. Despite working as a translator in Ottawa, and loving travelling abroad, she's thirty-four and still single. When Miranda arrives at Union Station in Toronto, she's surprised to see Taz, her childhood friend. Years earlier, they'd drifted apart. Miranda was so hurt over the loss of their friendship. She's also shocked to learn that he's divorced. Miranda finds herself inviting him and his sick mother for Thanksgiving dinner at her parents' place. It is finally their time? ... Chef Drew Barnett has been hired to create the perfect Thanksgiving for a potential restaurant investor, but a power outage has him scrambling to find a working kitchen. Jilted bride and food critic Claire Rothchild is pet-sitting a friend's St. Bernard named Snowflake. She wants to hibernate for the holidays, but it turns out the guest house she's staying in has power when the main house does not. Feeling uncomfortable for invading the privacy of his potential investor's guest, Drew doesn't know what to make of a food critic in his kitchen, just as Claire doesn't know how to stop interfering with his dishes and passing tidbits to a mooching pooch. Is this a recipe for a Dog-Gone Holiday? Or for love? ... Born with a degenerative eye disease, photographer Kelsey Thomas knows two things: she will be legally blind within five years and her family wants to see her married and settled first. Then Kelsey's boyfriend breaks up with her one week before she planned to introduce him to her family at her grandmother's island commitment ceremony. At the resort bar, she meets Dr. Noah Lawson. He spends his life inside his lab developing cutting-edge techniques to slow the progression of vision loss. When he's offered funding with strings--save the eyesight of the granddaughter of a wealthy investor--he's reluctant to agree. Noah is smitten by Kelsey--so much so that he agrees to be her fake wedding date for the Thanksgiving holidays. Too late, he realizes her connection to his potential investor. Is this a set-up? Or fate? ...  DETAILED STORY PLOT LINES:

Anna J. Stewart: At least that's what Tripp Atsilla hopes after spending ten years as an officer and analyst with a special division in a federal cyber-investigation. The last few years he's been neck deep with ICAC (Internet Crimes Against Children) and while he's lasted longer than most, he's on the brink of burnout. His last case turned into a nightmare; he was too late and someone he'd sworn to protect died. Going home feels like the perfect escape and Thanksgiving is an excellent time--his overwhelming family will be too distracted by the holiday to pay him much mind. Helping with the construction expansion of his brother's deli/restaurant is just the recharge he needs. Striking up a friendship with one of the waitresses? Bonus. Starting over is something Parker Rutledge understands all too well. Two years ago she changed her name and moved to a small town, hoping to leave the damage her ex-husband caused behind. She loves her off the grid life working as a waitress in the local deli, but soon the phone calls, emails, and threats begin. Someone's found her; someone who knows who she really is. Someone who wants to make her pay for her ex-husband's crimes. But can she trust Tripp? Can she trust anyone? While the Atsilla family prepares to celebrate Thanksgiving, Tripp finds himself tied up in knots over Parker. He knows there's more to the woman than she's let on and there's nothing Tripp likes more than a puzzle to solve. When finally faced with the truth, he can only hope he's not too late to save yet another innocent life: that of the woman he loves.

Kayla Perrin: After her latest breakup, Miranda Cox isn't looking forward to heading home to Toronto for Thanksgiving. She'd raved to everyone that Matthew was the one; now she has yet another failed relationship under her belt. To make matters worse, her sister is newly engaged and she's bringing her fiancé. Her brother will be there with his new wife. Miranda feels like a failure. Thirty-four and still single! But she has a good reason. She's been pursuing her career in Ottawa, working as a translator. She often travels abroad. Still, at her age, she's regretting that she didn't put as much effort into finding a relationship. As Miranda arrives at Union Station in Toronto, she's surprised to see Taz, her childhood friend from school. Years earlier, they drifted apart when Taz got married and moved to the US. Miranda was so hurt over the loss of their friendship that she didn't even keep in touch with him on Facebook. But she's happy to see him now, a friendly face from her past. She's shocked to learn that he's divorced. They head back to their old neighborhood, but meet up for a drink and to catch up. Miranda learns that Taz never had children, that his marriage lasted years longer than it should have--and that many times, Taz wanted to reach out to her over the years. He's missed their friendship. Miranda wants to still be mad at him, but she's happy to have a friendly face to commiserate with. The truth is, she wasn't able to forgive Taz for marrying someone else. She always hoped that one day they'd fall madly in love and he would marry her. Unfortunately, there'll be no big dinner at Taz's place. His mother is sick. He's in town to spend time with her. Miranda finds herself inviting him and his mother for Thanksgiving dinner at her parents' place.

Melinda Curtis: Chef Drew Barnett wants to open his own restaurant. He's been hired to create the perfect Thanksgiving for a potential investor, but a power outage has him scrambling to find a working kitchen. Jilted bride and food critic Claire Rothchild is holing up in her friend's guest house while pet-sitting another friend's St. Bernard named Snowflake. She wants to hibernate this holiday, but it turns out her guest house has power when the main house does not. Feeling uncomfortable for invading the privacy of his potential investor's guest, Drew doesn't know what to make of a food critic in his kitchen, just as Claire doesn't know how to stop interfering with his dishes and passing tidbits to a mooching pooch. Is this a recipe for a Dog-Gone Holiday? Or for love?

Cari Lynn Webb: She needs a wedding date... Born with a degenerative eye disease, photographer Kelsey Thomas knows two things: she will be legally blind within five years and her family wants to see her married and settled first. Things seem to be on track until Kelsey's boyfriend breaks up with her one week before she planned to introduce him to her family at her grandmother's island commitment ceremony. She knows how she'll be spending her Thanksgiving professing her right to independence. He needs an angel investor in his research... Dr. Noah Lawson spends his life inside his lab developing cutting-edge techniques to slow the progression of vision loss, radical procedures that won't be approved or pay dividends for years. To escape the pressure, he always spends his holidays solo at an exclusive island resort. When Noah's offered funding with strings--save the eyesight of the granddaughter of a wealthy investor--he's reluctant to agree. A chance meeting... At the resort bar, Noah is smitten by a stranger--so much so that he agrees to be her fake wedding date for the holiday. What's the harm in that? Too late, he realizes Kelsey's connection to his potential investor. Is this a set-up? Or fate?

Legacies of Stalingrad Christina Morina 2011-09-19 Christina Morina's book examines the history of the Eastern Front war and its impact on German politics and society throughout the postwar period. She argues that the memory of the Eastern Front war was one of the most crucial and contested themes in each part of the divided Germany. Although the Holocaust gained the most prominent position in West German memory, official memory in East Germany centered on the war against the USSR. The book analyzes the ways in which these memories emerged in postwar German political culture during and after the Cold War, and how views of these events played a role in contemporary political debates. The analysis pays close attention to the biographies of the protagonists both during the war and after, drawing distinctions between the accepted, public memory of events and individual encounters with the war.
